General Information

September 1949 — September 1950

All items in this catalogue will be shipped post paid to Pacific Coast states and crated free. Unless stipulated otherwise, shipments will be sent by parcel post.

Cash with those orders to be shipped immediately, and 20% of purchase amount will be required to reserve plants for later delivery. Rooted cuttings will be shipped in June and July. Plants under the group headings and azaleas will be sent upon receiving order.

Sizes and prices of any specific varieties in larger stock than listed will gladly be quoted upon request.

May we remind you to plant camellias and azaleas only as deep as grown in the nursery. Addition of moisture-saving peat moss, deep watering during summer months, fertilizer after blossoming season, hand cultivation only, are suggestions to those unfamiliar with the growing of these plants.

Plant rooted cuttings in a shady spot using a good peat mixture and water freely during summer. By fall they can be moved to your desirable location.

Camellia J. C. Williams

Several years ago the late Mr. J. C. Williams crossed the species camellia Saluenensis with an ordinary Japonica in his famous garden at Caerhays.

Several of the seedlings of this cross have been appraised as very delightful garden subjects, and probably the most noteworthy of the entire group is Camellia J. C. Williams.

This outstanding camellia, while not as large as many of the camellia blooms with which we are familiar, has several desirable qualities. It is of unusual bright pink color, full pink in bud and pale rose-pink when expanded. The petals, generally six to eight, each notched in the center, open widely to about four inches across and are centered with a tuft of prominent yellow stamens. The blossoms have the tidy habit of falling intact and fresh when spent, eliminating the period of brownness so common to the camellias we know.

Along with its heavy and abundant budding quality, this new introduction promises free and persistent flowering over a long season. Mr. John Henny of Henny and Brydon Rhododendrons reported seeing in England this last April plants still in full bloom after a season beginning as early as November.

And not a few of us are interested in and encouraged by the claims that plants in the open have been known to remain undamaged in bud or leaf in zero temperatures. Not only has this hardiness been noted in relation to cold but in the fact that this camellia has been able to withstand the bright sunlight more than any other variety in Great Britain.

Recently Camellia J. C. Williams received a First Class Certificate from the Royal Horticultural Society of Great Britain, the first camellia in ten years to obtain this award. We are proud indeed to have been first in offering this variety to American gardens and in sizes to accommodate the average gardeners.
